

Rodrigo Limp Nascimento

Rodrigo Limp Nascimento has a degree in Electrical Engineering from the Universidade Federal de Juiz de Fora. He has a specialization in Regulatory Law and a master's degree in Public Sector Economics, both from the Universidade de Brasília. Besides, he has an Executive MBA in Management in Electric Energy Companies, from the Fundação Getúlio Vargas. He started his professional career at the National Electric Energy Agency (Aneel), in 2007, as a specialist in public energy services regulation. In 2015, he became a legislative consultant, in matters related to energy, mining and water resources, in the Brazilian Congress. From May 2018 to March 2020, he held the position of director in Aneel and, right after, as the secretary of Electric Energy of the Ministry of Mines and Energy (MME). Since April 2020, he has been a member of the Board of Directors of the National Electric System Operator (ONS) and, since November of the same year, a member of the Fiscal Council for Sustainable Energy in Brazil (ESBR). He was inducted as the CEO of Eletrobras in May 2021.

Fonte: www.eletrobras.com
Atualizado em: 18 de maio de 2021